Gigabyte surely is not one of the mainstream cell phone manufacturers, as clearly, the company focuses in developing computer parts for the digital world. Nevertheless, it also seems that Gigabyte has released their latest Gigabyte Codfish cell phone, and this particular phone comes with the Android 1.6 as its operating system.

Clearly, Android 1.6 isn't the latest Android OS in the market, but surely this is one of Gigabyte's latest attempts in capturing the mobile phone market. Also, the Gigabyte Codfish comes with a 3.2 inch display, and a 5 megapixel camera, which I think is pretty basic hardware specifications.

Take a look at the Gigabyte Codfish:
